

March 19, 2020

Dear student,

Thank you for your patience as our faculty and staff have worked to create a plan to shift your instruction for the remainder of the semester. You should be looking for messages from your instructors this morning and then more information from the UNT President.

You can learn about how each of your courses will be delivered at <http://learnanywhere.unt.edu>. All of the courses offered by New College will move to online delivery. In most cases, your faculty will be using Canvas and/or ZOOM to provide you as rich a learning experience as possible. For Applied Arts and Sciences majors, your BAAS 3000, 3020, or 4100 courses were already in an online format using Canvas or had Canvas as an integral part of the hybrid courses. Therefore, those have been continuing on schedule as online courses. There are also a number of tools that you will find on the same site <http://learnanywhere.unt.edu>.

For those of you who may be taking courses that are outside Applied Arts and Sciences and Project Design and Analysis majors via other UNT colleges, please check the website above to learn details.

In addition, we will be publishing information related to New College and the regional campus sites at Hall Park, Inspire Park and the CHEC at the following web site <http://frisco.unt.edu/covid19>.

For specific changes to each of your courses, each of your faculty members will be contacting you to let you know what is going to happen with your class between now and the end of the semester. If you have particular concerns or questions about any of your classes, please reach out to your instructor through email or the Canvas portal.

You can learn more about UNT's response to COVID-19 at <https://healthalerts.unt.edu/>. The website is updated regularly with the latest information.

UNT is committed to the health and safety of everyone in our community. We will continue to provide high quality instruction so that you can succeed, progress, and achieve your academic goals. In the meantime, we also look forward to helping you register for summer and fall classes! We are doing phone and Zoom appointments, so please call to set up your advising appointment at the same number.

Wesley Spencer Randall, Ph.D.

Dean of New College
UNT at Frisco
Professor of Logistics
University of North Texas